

EVERYDAY CARE

Pet Care Basics

A quick reference for the everyday habits that support a safe, healthy, and enriching home.

Daily basics

- Provide fresh water and appropriate food in amounts suited to the individual pet.
- Keep sleeping, feeding, litter, enclosure, and toilet areas clean and comfortable.
- Offer species-appropriate movement, play, enrichment, and opportunities to rest.
- Check your pet each day for changes in appetite, energy, movement, breathing, toileting, or behaviour.

Ongoing care

- Maintain identification and keep contact information current.
- Schedule veterinary care appropriate to the pet's age, health, and species.
- Use positive, humane training and handling methods.
- Provide safe mental stimulation instead of relying only on physical exercise.
- Review your home regularly for new escape risks, hazards, or damaged equipment.

Know your individual pet

- Learn their preferred ways to play, rest, interact, and communicate discomfort.
- Respect body language and allow choice whenever possible.
- Adjust routines as the pet ages or as their health and confidence change.

General guidance only

This resource is not veterinary advice. Feeding, medication, exercise, grooming, and health needs vary by species and individual animal. Follow professional guidance for your pet.